“ Kim and I had shared a unique, genuine bond in that we could always vent to each other and find comfort in it. She would always call or text asking me about a flower she liked, what the name of it was, how to take care of it, sending me pictures of something she wanted to landscape and then brag of another project she completed. I often called her a machine because there was nothing she couldn't do. She had an infectious smile and a laugh that you knew she was definitely thinking something you wanted to know. :) I'll miss those crazy phone calls, fun texts and reveling with her on her latest project but I'm truly thankful she was my friend and she is resting easy in the arms of Jesus... Love ya girl!

“ Kim and I had a unique, special bond in that we could always vent to each other and find relief in it. She would call or text me asking me about some sort of flower she wanted to know the name of, how to take care of them, or how to re-landscape something, sending me pictures asking for ideas. She was amazingly strong and I often called her a machine! She had an infectious smile and a laugh that you knew there was more to what she was thinking. I'll surely miss those crazy calls and curious texts but I'm thankful she was my friend and is at peace resting in the arms of Jesus!! Love ya girl!

“ Remembering Kim Brown and family with fondness. We lived across the street from the Brown family for about 10 years during the 1990's. My daughter, Sheri, played almost daily with Brittani and Brooke. Kim became a second momma to Sheri. One cute story I'd like to share goes like this: Ms. Kim was way more into fashion than I was, much to Sheri's dismay! So, at about six years of age, it finally got to Sheri so much that she packed her little vinyl pink princess suitcase to "run away from home." Where was she running to? Ms. Kim's house! When I found out and asked her why she was running away from home, her answer was simple; Ms. Kim wears high-heeled shoes and you won't! Lol ;) Seriously though, Kim and the girls always did look fashionably in style and Sheri loved getting all their hand-me-downs. Kim was a good mom to her kids and any other kids who came over. Her door was always open to me to drop in for coffee and a chat. The Sims' family's thoughts and prayers are sent as we are so saddened that Kim has left us way sooner than we would have planned her life. Love and hugs to Billy, Brittani, Brooke, and Joey. Sincerely, Lillian Sims

“ I always remembered Kim being so cheerful and happy in high school. She was a dear friend and I know I will see her again in Heaven. My prayers and thoughts are with the family and friends during this difficult time. God Bless. Amanda Tidwell Payne

“ I remember inviting her out to come camping for a girls weekend....she said I was crazy and she didn't like camping. ..so I continued to beg her to just come out and visit.....so low and behold she showed up with Billy by her side..... After her hanging out with us all seeing all the laughter and just fresh air by the lake She was hooked.....she loved it and ever since then she became an avid camper.....And she out does everyone else when she camps....she will shop all year long for stuff to take on her next camping trip.....
Love and Miss her

“ Dear Billy Brittani Brook and Joey.... love that smile... knowing that Kim is in heaven is comforting, we will see her again one day. Kim will be missed by so many. The strength she had was amazing. Her love for her family was so strong. We shared a common bond together, Chad and Randall. Her love for those boys was one like i have never seen. I will always keep her memory alive for her boys, reminding them of how much she love them. May our Lord comfort the family as only He can do. Kim this is not goodbye rather see you later.
